Midwestern University is a graduate degree-granting institution specializing in the health sciences with nine colleges and two campuses. The Illinois campus, located on a 105-acre site in Downers Grove, is home to four colleges: the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine, the Chicago College of Pharmacy, the College of Health Sciences, and the College of Dental Medicine-Illinois. The Arizona campus, located in Glendale, is home to six colleges: the Arizona College of Osteopathic Medicine, the College of Pharmacy-Glendale, the College of Health Sciences, the College of Dental Medicine-Arizona, the Arizona College of Optometry, and the College of Veterinary Medicine, which will matriculate its first class of 100 students in the fall of 2014.

- The University operates two campuses – one in Downers Grove, Illinois, a western suburb of Chicago (2,500+ students), and one in Glendale, Arizona (2,900+ students), the state’s fourth largest city located in the Phoenix metropolitan area.

- The Downers Grove Campus was purchased in 1986, and the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine moved from its prior home in Hyde Park, Illinois, to this western suburb of Illinois.

- In 2013, Midwestern University will expand its healthcare education to a clinical setting approximately five minutes from campus. The Midwestern University Clinical Campus will include a comprehensive, multi-specialty clinic for the community where our osteopathic physicians, pharmacists, clinical psychologists, and dentists will be able to mentor students while treating patients from the community.

- MWU’s faculty mix reflects a blend of experienced teachers, prominent scientists, and established clinicians. In 2012, MWU researchers on both campuses had $3,058,222 in total active extramural funding, greater than 50% of which was from the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

- The University is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission, a Commission of the North Central Association (NCA) of Colleges and Schools (30 N. LaSalle St, Suite 2400, Chicago, IL 60602; 312/263-0456).

- Kathleen H. Goeppinger, Ph.D. is the President and Chief Executive Officer.
